A. Update to Quick's August 9, 2005 report.

As of the time of high noon, Detroit, Michigan time on September 1, 2005 hereof, Quick has received affirmative acknowledgments from 76% of its customers for whom 911 or E911 services are available from their serving local landline regulated telephone company.

Quick estimates that 10% of the subject customers will not affirmatively respond by the new September 29, 2005 deadline.

Since on or about August 10, 2005, all new customers have been required to sign affirmative acknowledgement forms (which are on a separate piece of paper from the service application) as part of their applications for service and hence are not part of the numbers applicable to this report as the compliance rate for new service is 100%.

On or about September 26, 27, 28 and 29, we will send emails to such non-responders and make physical phone calls to their numbers and leave voice mails with those who ring without answer to alert them to the "hot line" scenario described below.

Following the September 29, 2005 deadline, Quick intends to "hot line" every such non-responding customer so that all outbound calls are sent to the Quick customer service department for the next 14 days. For any such customer that still refuses compliance, we will shut off service.

Respectfully submitted this 1st day of September, 2005.
